HINTS ON ROSE CULTURE.

ON arrival of the plants, carefully unpack them, sprinkle well with water, and plant at once. Never leave them laying about exposed to winds. Occasionally it may happen that a package is unduly delayed, and in that case some plants may have suffered; if any appear shrivelled, open a trench in the ground, lay them quite flat in the bottom of it, and well cover with soil roots and tops after freely soaking with water, and allow them to remain about 24 hours underground. At the expiration of that period the plants can be taken up, when it will be found that the shrivelled appearance will have disappeared.

Roses will grow in almost any soil if properly prepared, but that which is specially suited is a rather heavy clay soil with a fair proportion of sand. Roses require an open place apart from other plants, and sheltered from strong winds, but not too closely surrounded by trees. The soil should be dug to a depth of two feet, and a liberal supply of cow or pig manure worked in. Roses require a fair supply of manure, but care should be taken not to allow the manure to come in contact with the roots when newly planted. If pig or cow manure are not obtainable, good rotten horse manure is a good substitute. Roses can be planted from June to September, and if strong plants are obtainable, are often successfully planted January and February, especially on the high veldt.

In planting, Roses should be well pruned—"most nurserymen prune them before sending out." Two or three shoots at most should be left, and these cut back to at least 9 inches from the union of stock and bud. All budded Roses should be planted with the union of stock and bud level with the surface. Spread the roots out when planting; first place some fine soil over them, then add a little manure, and fill in the remainder of the soil. Well tread the soil firmly round the plants, and give a good watering at once. As I before stated, in no case let the manure touch the bare roots.

Roses should be pruned yearly to produce good blooms. This should be done during July and August; all the weak wood should be cut away, leaving the main shoots, which must also be well cut back. In the case of Climbers and Ramblers, these do not require much pruning; the tips of the shoots should only be cut off and the shoots thinned.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Owing to the large demand for our Roses and Fruit Trees, Customers are advised to place their orders as early as possible, for as the season advances, varieties become sold out and we are unable to supply all Customers with their full requirements.

HINTS ON PRUNING.

PRUNING is one of the most important operations in fruit-growing, and much depends on the way young trees are pruned in the first instance. This may mean a success to your orchard or a total failure. The extent to which pruning may with advantage be practised depends very much on the subject under treatment, the variety of fruit you are planting, the class of tree, and many other circumstances. It must not be taken for granted that all trees are to be treated in the same manner; this is where the planter often goes wrong; he is under the impression that all trees must be cut down knee-high, and all side branches removed, just leaving the main stem. This is not so; it all depends on the class of tree you are planting and where that young tree was grown. Trees that have been grown in a Nursery at a high altitude require different treatment to those grown in low altitudes. The reason is this: In our high altitude our deciduous trees, such as Peaches, Apricots, Nectarines, etc., makes a fully branched, well-shaped tree in one year, and will bear a crop of fruit the first year after planting if properly pruned. All these trees require in the way of pruning is to cut them back to about 2 feet 6 inches and shorten the branches back about half-way. By planting a branched tree you save at least one year's growth—trees grown at lower altitudes usually produce a single stem tree the first year, which requires another year or two to produce the branched tree. Several of our Clients have had their trees ruined by having them pruned by so-called experts who cut the branches off flush with the main stem, not leaving an eye for the tree to break from. If you are planting single stem trees cut them down to about 2 feet from ground. Apples and Pears usually make a single stem tree the first year. Walnuts do not require pruning.

CALENDAR FOR THE YEAR

For Tarka and other districts in a similar altitude—3,500-4,500 feet.

JANUARY.—Sow Cabbage, Cauliflower and Savoy, Lettuce, Radish, Celery, Cress, Mustard, Spinach, Peas, Herbs, Carrot, Parsnip, Queen Onion, Turnip and French Beans may also be sown where conditions are favourable. Carnations, Pansy, Stock, Foxglove, Columbine, Wallflower, Daisy, and other hardy flowers may also be sown. Seed-beds would be better for some protection from the sun, and a plentiful supply of water is quite indispensable. It is better to raise small flower seeds in boxes or pans for transplanting later; in this way they can be more conveniently protected from heat or rain. Sow Winter-flowering Sweet Peas. PANSIES and STOCKS: Finest flowers are produced from early sowings—say January, February, March. FLOWER BULBS: Prepare ground for planting (in February and March) Anemones, Daffodils, Freesias, Hyacinths, Narcissus, Ranunculus, Snowdrops, Jonquils, etc. Roses and Citrus Trees do exceedingly well planted in January and February in districts where Summer rains are prevalent.

FEBRUARY.—FLOWER BULBS: Plant Anemones, Daffodils, Freesias, Jonquils, Hyacinths, Narcissus, Ranunculus, Snowdrops, etc., for Winter and early Spring flowers. Sow Winter-flowering Sweet Peas, Pansy, Stock, Daisy, Godetia, Dianthus, Verbena, Phlox, Delphinium, Penstemon, Snapdragon, Carnation, Larkspur, Scabious, Cosmos, Hunnemannia, Sweet Sultan, Gaillardia and other hardy flowers. Sow Cauliflower, Cabbage, Savoy, Onion, Beet, Lettuce, Spinach, Turnip, Radish, Herbs, French Beans, etc. Sow Lucerne, Rape, Swede and other Turnips, Mangel, etc. Seed-beds would be the better for some protection from the sun, and a plentiful supply of water is indispensable.

MARCH.—Plant out Cabbage and Cauliflower. Sow Onion, Turnip, Cauliflower, Cabbage, Brussels Sprouts, Leek, Parsnip, Spinach, Lettuce, Beet, Carrot, French Beans, Savoy, Endive, Herbs, Parsley, Radish, Shalot, Salsafy, Scorzonera, etc. Plant Narcissus, Snowdrops, Hyacinths, Ranunculus, Jonquils, Daffodils, Anemones, etc., for Winter and early Spring flowers. Sow Winter-flowering Sweet Peas, Pansy, Carnation, Poppy, Dianthus, Stock, Polyanthus, Verbena, Snapdragon, Godetia, Daisy, etc.

APRIL.—Sow Onion, Turnip, Cabbage, Broad Beans, Lettuce, Beet, Spinach, Parsnip, Carrot, Radish, Shallot, etc. Seeds of Hardy Annuals and Perennials may still be sown, such as Sweet Peas, Pansy, Carnation, Daisy, Stock, Poppy, Larkspur, Chrysanthemum, Godetia, Phlox, Hunnemannia, Pyrethrum, etc.

MAY.—This is the best month for sowing Garden Peas. It is also a good time to sow Onion, Lettuce, Leek, Turnip, Spinach and Broad Beans. Hardy Flowers, such as Pansy, Poppy, Stock, Dianthus, Carnation, Cosmos, Sweet Peas, and Candytuft may still be sown. An excellent time to plant out Strawberries. The season for planting Roses and Fruit Trees is approaching, and the ground should be got ready. Success or failure is largely dependent upon the condition of the ground, hence the importance of thorough preparation. The ground should be trenched to its full depth, and a liberal supply of well-rotted stable litter or other manure incorporated with it.

JUNE.—The planting season is now here for Fruit Trees, Roses, Forest Trees, Grape Vines, etc.; also Rhubarb roots. Sow Peas, Onions, Broad Beans, Radish, Lettuce, Turnip, Spinach, Parsnip, etc. All idle ground should be manured and dug over roughly, to be exposed to frost. Manure and top-dress heavily Rhubarb.

JULY.—Still continue to plant Fruit Trees, Rose Trees, Grape Vines, Forest Trees, Rhubarb Roots, etc. Hardy Annuals and Perennials, such as Carnations, Pansy, Daisy, Stocks, Verbena, etc., may be planted out. Sow Marigold, Petunia, Dianthus, Larkspur, etc.; also sow Peas, Broad Beans, Turnip, Carrot, Parsnip, Lettuce and Radish.

AUGUST.—Fruit Trees, Roses and Vines should now be pruned. The planting of Fruit Trees, etc., should be completed without delay. Sow Cabbage, Onion, Beet, etc. The ground should be got in readiness for sowing and planting next month.

SEPTEMBER.—All seeds can be sown this month with but few exceptions. Sow Cucumber, Squash, Pumpkin, Tomatoes, French Beans, Vegetable Marrow, Mealies, Cabbage, Cauliflower, Carrots, Beet, Rhubarb, etc. Plant Dahlia Tubers, Gladiolus, Lilies, Tuberose, etc. Sow Asters, Candytuft, Larkspur, etc. Plant Potatoes for first crop.

OCTOBER.—Sow Sweet Melon, Water Melon, Squash, Cucumber, Dwarf Beans, Mealies, Carrot, Beet, Cauliflower, Cabbage. Plant out Chrysanthemums, Geraniums and hardy Garden Shrubs. Transplant Ferns, etc., in the Greenhouse. Put in the main crop of Potatoes. Commence to spray against Fruit Fly arsenate of lead (4 ozs.), sugar (3 lbs.), water (4 gals.); about every ten days. Sprinkle foliage only and very lightly, but repeat after rain. Top Vines and break out useless shoots.

NOVEMBER.—Sow Tomato, Squash, Dwarf Beans, Mangel, Beet, Lettuce, Radish, Spinach, etc.; sow also Balsams, Lobelia, Zinnia, Calendula, Phlox, Portulaca, Peunia, Annual Chrysanthemums, etc. Keep Grape Vines well topped two leaves above the bunch, also keep them well sulphured to guard against mildew.

DECEMBER.—Sow Cabbage and Cauliflower. Last sowing of Cucumber, Squash, Marrow and Sweet Corn, Potatoes. Sowings of all other Vegetables and Herbs. Water and manure well Chrysanthemums, Dahlias, Roses, Stocks, Carnations, Forget-me-nots. Give all Vegetables, Fruit Trees, etc., an abundant supply of water.
